Purpose of the website

The purpose of the Triple Sustainability website is to inform website visitors of any aspect related to customer businesses, such as products, services, contact information and location. In addition, it also aims to disclose information related to the website's sector of activity.

Legal framework

This website's activity is subject to the Spanish and European legal framework, specifically the following standards:

- General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) (EU) 2016/679, of 27th April, regulating personal data processing in the countries of the European Union.
- Law 3/2018, of 5th December, on Personal Data Protection and Digital Rights (LOPD and GDD), standards of territorial scope (applicable to Spain), that define and expand on many of the concepts and regulations outlined in the GDPR.
- Law 34/2002, of 11th July, on Information Society Services and E-Commerce (LSSICE), a law that affects websites that, in some way, carry out economic activities through electronic means, as is the case with this website.

Terms of Use and liability

Any person accessing this website assumes the role of User, and they undertake to strictly observe and comply with the terms and conditions established herein, as well as any other legal provisions that may be applicable. Triple Sustainability will not be liable for any damage - to itself or to third parties - caused by the User making use of this website.

Triple Sustainability provides access to articles, information, services and data that it owns or is owned by third parties. These articles, information, services and data are prepared solely for information purposes. They are of general interest, which may not reflect the current status of legislation or jurisprudence, and they refer to public situations. Therefore, the User should not necessarily apply their content to specific cases. The content of this website, consequently, cannot be considered a substitute for legal advice under any circumstances.

Triple Sustainability reserves the right to amend any information that may appear on the website, at any time and without prior notice, without being obliged to advise or inform Users of said amendments in advance, and both parties understand that publication on this website constitutes sufficient consent.

This website has been reviewed and tested to ensure it works correctly without interruption. However, Triple Sustainability cannot rule out the possibility of certain programming errors, lack of timely availability (for example, server crashes, or maintenance thereof) or the occurrence of force majeure, natural disasters, strikes, or similar circumstances that make temporary access to the website impossible. Likewise, Triple Sustainability cannot guarantee the uninterrupted or error-free operation of this website, nor is it responsible for viruses originating from a telematic transmission infiltrated by third parties and generated to negatively affect a computer system.

The User agrees not to use this website or, if applicable, the services or products offered herein, to carry out activities contrary to law, public order or these Terms of Use. Therefore, Triple Sustainability is not liable for the information and content stored herein, including but not limited to forums, chats, blog generators, comments, social networks or any other means that allow third parties to publish content. However, and in compliance with the provisions of sections 11 and 16 of the LSSI-CE, Triple Sustainability is made available to all Users, authorities and security forces, and it will actively collaborate on the removal or blocking of any content that could affect or contravene national or international legislation, third-party rights, or morality and public order. If a User believes any content on the website may be classed as such, please inform our staff immediately.

Triple Sustainability reserves the right to deny or remove access to the website without prior warning - as the result of an internal request or a request from a third party - to Users who violate our Terms of Use.

Intellectual property

This website, including but not limited to programming, editing, compilation and other elements necessary for its operation, as well as its designs, logos, text and graphics, are the property of Triple Sustainability or, where applicable, they are made available to Triple Sustainability via license or express authorisation of their owners.

Technical property regulations duly protect all the contents of the website registered in the corresponding public registries. In addition, total or partial reproduction and publication of the website are not permitted, nor is its computer processing, distribution, dissemination, modification or transformation, without prior written permission being obtained first.

Triple Sustainability will ensure compliance with the above terms and conditions, as well as proper use of the contents presented on its web pages. It will exercise all civil and criminal actions that correspond in the event the User breaches these rights.

The designs, logos, text and graphics outside of Triple Sustainability that may appear on the website belong to their respective owners, who are themselves responsible for any possible controversies that may arise concerning them. In any case, Triple Sustainability has obtained express and prior authorisation from the owners to use their media content. Triple Sustainability acknowledges that the content owners possess the corresponding industrial and intellectual property rights, with mere mention or appearance on the website not implying that the Data Controller has rights or responsibilities related to them, nor will they imply endorsement, sponsorship or recommendation by the same.

Links to third-party websites

Triple Sustainability may make available to the User links or other elements that allow access to other websites belonging to third parties. We do not market the products and services on these linked pages, nor do we assume any liability for them, the information contained therein, their veracity or legality, or any effects that may arise.

In any case, Triple Sustainability states that it will proceed to immediately withdraw any content that may contravene national or international legislation, morality or public order, by quickly removing the link to the website in question and bringing any critical cases or questionable content to the attention of the competent authorities.

Jurisdiction and applicable law

The relationship between the Data Controller and User is governed by Spanish law, to which both parties expressly submit. English is the language used to draft and interpret this Legal Notice. Triple Sustainability and the User agree to submit to the courts of the User's place of residence in order to resolve any disputes or issues related to this website or the activities developed on it.
